34-45½-New. Massachusetts trusts or common-law business associations. General features of such associations are that "property is transferred to trustees, who hold the legal title to all the assets belonging to the trust and exercise the exclusive management and control of it under the terms of the agreement. Certificates of part ownership, resembling shares of stock in a corporation, are issued to those who are the ultimate owners of the property." 86 IndA196, 156 NE584.

34-45½-New. Such associations have been held not to fall under any familiar conception of joint stock associations. [illegible] 2728SW[illegible].

34-45¼-New. Massachusetts trust held to be corporation within constitutional definition of corporation. 120Kan557, 245P143; 238Mich508, 212NW867.

34-45½-New. Members are jointly and severally liable for debts incurred in conduct of business under declaration of trust. TexCivA 2828SW958.

34-45½-New. Such associations are distinguished from corporations, though there are appearances of similarity in forms of organization. 121Kan784, 250 P[illegible].

34-45½-New. Liability of trustees. TexCivA 2728SW958.

34-45¼-New. Trustees of business trust constitute board and can only act as unit in disposition of any business of trust requiring exercise of judgment or discretion and not through individuals composing board. 75Mont261, 242P540.

34-45⅛-New. One trustee cannot vote as such upon approval of claim of his own against trust. 75Mont261, 242P540.

34-45/10-New. Hence, where but two of three trustees composing board were present at board meeting at which individual claim of one of the two against trust was presented for allowance, and alleged account stated agreed upon, such action was void for want of competent representation of trust. 75Mont261, 242 P540.

34-45/11-New. Where minutes of meeting are silent as to any ratification of prior action, it cannot be contended that illegal action of two trustees in agreeing to account stated in favor of one of them had been ratified at subsequent meeting at which entire board was present. 75 Mont261, 242P540.

34-45/13-New. Under articles of association in form of declaration of trust, trustees and stockholders are individually liable for association's debts notwithstanding attempted limitation of liability, where they fail to organize as corporation. 120Kan557, 245P143; 123 Kan409, 255P1105.

34-45/14-New. In some jurisdictions organization of Massachusetts trusts or business trusts is limited to purposes for which private corporations may be formed under general laws. 120Kan557, 245P143.

34-45/15-New. Stockholders of joint stock association, formed by trust agreement, are liable for debts of association contracted without agreement with creditor that he shall look alone to property of associations. TexCivA 2728SW622.

34-45/16-New. Even if evidence failed to show certain defendants were members of association, this would not justify peremptory instruction in favor of association and other stockholders. TexCivA 2728SW622.

34-45/17-New. Creditor's release of lien against certain property did not estop him as matter of law from asserting claim against association and members where there was evidence of agreement by members to take care of such claim. TexCivA 2728SW622.

34-45/18-New. Contract between common-law trust at meeting of board of trustees attended by only two of its three trustees and company of which one of such two was virtual owner is nullity. 77Mont30, 248P219.

34-45/19-New. Such contract is not validated by subsequent written approval of third member of board of trustees. 77 Mont30, 248P219.

34-45/20-New. Board of trustees of common-law trust can act only as board when assembled as such and not through individuals composing it. 77Mont30, 248 P219.

Third person for whose benefit contract is made may sue thereon in own name to recover money or property wrongfully obtained by party; bank to which cotton buyer pledged planters' warehouse receipt for cotton purchased to secure money to pay planters held cotton in trust for planters, where it refused payment of checks; bank which sold to third persons cotton purchased by cotton buyer without paying checks to planters held proceeds in trust for purchasers (Civ. Code 1910 § 5516). As a general rule, an action on a contract must be brought in the name of the party in whom the legal interest in such a contract is vested and against the party who made it in person or by agent. (a) But where a contract is made for the benefit of a third person as well as for the benefit of the parties thereto, and where one of the parties to the contract obtains money or other property which rightfully belongs to such third person, he may sue thereon in his own name for such money or property, as the law creates both the privity and the promise. (b) Where a cotton buyer, in pursuance of an agreement between him and a bank, bought cotton from planters for cash, took their warehouse receipts for the cotton purchased, gave to the planters his checks on the bank for the payment of the cotton so bought, and pledged such warehouse receipts with the bank to secure it for money to be paid by it on such checks, and where the bank refused payment of such checks, in equity it held the cotton so purchased and pledged to it, and the proceeds thereof, in trust for the purpose of paying the planters the purchase price of the cotton; and, where the bank, before paying such checks for the purchase price, sold the cotton to third persons, received the proceeds thereof, and still failed to pay such checks, in equity, it held such proceeds in trust for the benefit of the persons to whom it sold such cotton, and to hold them harmless in the event the planters should recover from them the cotton or its value in actions of trover brought against them by the planters upon the ground that no title passed to the bank or its vendees by reason of the fact that the sales by the planters to the cotton buyer were for cash. 221Ky55, 297SW938; Mo 8SW(2d)944; 98NJEq9, 130A281 (holding that, where property is left to two brothers and is managed by one of brothers, trust is created in favor of second brother, especially where it is shown that second brother is not mentally strong); 127Misc399, 216NYS 267 (retention by estate of life tenant, entitled only to income, of corpus); 219 AppDiv425, 219NYS166 (devise to B, after contract to devise to A, makes owner of legal title constructive trustee to extent of A's beneficial interest); TexCivA 20SW(2d)229; TexCivA 22SW (2d)520 (bank depositing to agent's personal credit on his unauthorized indorsement of checks payable to principal).
